

Tyndall discoloration and filler injections: A possible side effect

De Padova, M.P.a, De Vita, V.b, Mordente, I.b, Fabbrocini, G.b

a Ospedale Privato Nigrisoli, Bologna, Italy

b Department of Systematic Pathology, Division of Clinical Dermatology, University of Naples Federico II, Napoli, Italy

Journal of Plastic Dermatology

Volume 8, Issue 2, 2012, Pages 135-136

Abstract

One of the possible side effects that may occurred after injection of hyaluronic acid (HA) filler substances is the appearance of blue-grey discoloration of the skin in the site of injection due to the so called Tyndall effect. In this brief case report, we describe such adverse reaction occurred in a 48 years old female patient and its treatment.